

Opening Doors for Survivors of Domestic Violence

ANNUAL REPORT
FY 2021-22

We provide solutions to empower survivors of domestic violence to achieve safety, self-sufficiency and freedom

Our mission at Next Door Solutions is clear, to end domestic violence in the moment and for all time, and yet lately I find myself looking for clarity in our work, our purpose, and ultimately in what our world and communities need. Dare I say, what they demand and deserve. The months and years have been long. We have suffered unforeseeable losses and will be picking up the pieces for many months to come. This quote by Beth Ritchie speaks to our overall humanity and vision. Of course, we want the violence to end in relationships and in our communities, though ultimately we want freedom and liberation. Liberation speaks to the ability to thrive and to flourish, to have all of what you need, and to do so while being and embracing your truest self.

Next Door Solutions is dedicated to liberation for individuals, families, and communities. While our practice changes, informed, centered, and led by survivors, we are unwavering in our commitment and belief that it is possible. This year we saw our crisis calls rise to previous levels, the legal advocacy need skyrocket, and the request for housing was unprecedented. We found ourselves re-examining our internal practices, looking for ways to expand our prevention footprint, and beginning to address the impact of this pandemic on families, and on our staff.

“Our goal is not ending violence. It is liberation.”

– BETH RITCHIE

Thank you for supporting our vision over the last 50 years. We are successful because of the survivors that share their stories, because of the staff that give of themselves daily, and because of our broader community of supporters like you. As we move into this next year of reflection and transformation, we hold the ultimate goal of liberation closest to our hearts, and fiercely propel forward to claim the future we envision.

In Solidarity, Love, and Intention,

CLIENT SUCCESS STORY: BEATRICE

Beatrice was referred to Next Door Solutions to Domestic Violence (NDS) after the police were called when she experienced physical abuse from her infant's father, who fled the home before law enforcement arrived. NDS' Advocates were able to assist Beatrice with safety planning, legal assistance, and a restraining order.

Later, Beatrice was assaulted by her ex-partner again and sustained such serious injuries that she had to go to the emergency room. Although he was arrested, she was fearful of returning home and decided to leave her residence and was provided additional safety planning to prepare for her ex's release from jail.

Next Door Solutions' legal program assisted Beatrice in getting direct legal advice from an attorney and court accompaniment. She was also able to access therapy for herself and her children.

Unfortunately, Beatrice was set to return to work after maternity leave when the pandemic occurred. She lost her job due to the shelter in place mandates and had no other source of income. She was past due on rent and utility bills and received assistance from NDS' Housing First program. NDS was able to provide financial assistance and support her with gift cards to offset costs for food.

Beatrice has five children, and searching for employment was a challenge. NDS assisted her with applying for unemployment benefits, child care programs for low-income households and low-income housing.

We are proud to share that with NDS' help, Beatrice is now working full time, has free child care, and moved into a new home before the holidays and is now in safe housing with her five children.

“My challenges would’ve been more severe and drastic if it wasn’t for Next Door Solutions.”

– BEATRICE

Beatrice shared, “The support and financial assistance helped me tremendously, and as a single mother going through domestic violence my challenges would’ve been more severe and drastic if it wasn’t for Next Door Solutions. I appreciate all the help and patience NDS staff has given me throughout my process.”
